Tobin Center for the Performing Arts

"Cultural Pivot of San Antonio"

The Tobin Center for the Performing Arts is a world-class venue on the banks of the San Antonio River. The iconic limestone arena was once called the Municipal Auditorium and originally built as a memorial to Americans who died fighting in World War I. The renovated center features a multi-purpose, 2039-seat Performance Hall and an outdoor performance plaza with a video wall and water taxi portal. Concerts, symphonies, operas, plays, ballets, and other performances are held here throughout the year. The center, has hence much evolved, and is now a symbol of the progressive creativity of San Antonio's individuals.

Sunken Garden Theatre

"Música y Teatro"

Este es un anfiteatro al aire libre que se utiliza tanto para eventos copatrocinados de la ciudad y comerciales. Aquí se realizan veladas musicales, ya que hay conciertos de jazz, country y rock. Se puede ver a la San Antonio Symphony, también. Para reír un poco, se puede ir a un espectáculo teatral de comedia. El ambiente es romántico, ya que el escenario está ubicado contra una ladera boscosa, donde unos edificios de piedra caliza de estilo renacentista griego contienen los camerinos.

Freeman Coliseum

"Kiss the Iguanas"

The Freeman Coliseum is home to the Central Hockey League team, the San Antonio Iguanas. This is more than just a sports venue. It has been visited by musicians such as rockers KISS, Elvis Presley, Lawrence Welk, Roy Rogers, Rod Stewart, and rappers Run DMC and Salt 'N' Peppa. But 1977 was definitely a year to remember as 10 major rock concerts were held here.
