Sambrook's Brewery

"Brewing Up Magic"

Although he wasn't always a brewer, or even doing anything remotely related to it, Duncan Sambrook, along with two friends, has managed to perfect the art of brewing. The brewery, operational since 2008, largely owe their success to their two creations in particular, the Wandle & Junction ales. If you want to get a sneak-peek at what goes on at this establishment, not to mention sample some of their brews, then it might be a good idea to sign up for one of their tours. If you want a taste of the entire range of brews, then the shop on-site will be more than happy to satisfy you.

London Fields Brewery

"Brewing Memories"

Inspired by the immutable spirit of Hackney, London Fields Brewery established a name for itself as the borough's first craft brewery in over a century. The beer is brewed on-site and is served alongside a delicious food menu, organic wines and All Press coffee. Besides the usual variants, seasonal and small-batch releases are served as well attracting the attention of a more discerning clientele. Tours of the brewery offer an insight into the processes involved in the creation of these distinctive brews and end with a beer tasting at the taproom. Special events like live music performances and quiz nights are often hosted at the taproom as well, adding to the vibrant ambiance of the London Fields Brewery. If you'd like to try your hand at homebrewing, sign up for a class and shop for supplies at the London Fields Homebrew Store.
