Piccolo Mondo by "El Suk"

"Latin & 1980s Music"

Crowded with young patrons and located close to the Cà Foscari campus of Venice's University, not far from the Galleria dell'Accademia, Piccolo Mondo or 'El Souk' attracts many students. Featuring hippest DJs and open till late, it makes for a good place to dance the night away. As the name suggests, the interior is arabesque, with lots of low lighting. There are theme nights, like, 80s night and Latin American night when the place takes on a new life. The students seem to enjoy whatever is put on. There is no entry fee and it is one of the very few places in Venice where it is possible to dance.

Venice Jazz Club

"Traditional Jazz Club in the Heart of Venice"

The Venice Jazz Club was born in 2006 after the closing of the Around Midnight Club. The Venice Jazz Club quartet is the group that usually plays here, but sometimes other jazz musicians come here as well. The club has great wine, sometimes hosts art exhibitions and is located between Campo Santa Margherita and the Accademia Bridge.

Club Molocinque

"Disco-Restaurant"

There is nothing you cannot do at Club Molocinque; there's an area for dining and one for dancing - plenty of room for a fun night out. The music played here is as versatile as the place itself - the best of techno, funk and neo-pop keeps you entertained throughout your visit. Not loud enough to drown your dinner conversation, and just loud enough to make for a great party! Here you will find several beautiful, young Venetians, out to relax after a long day of work, and some who're here to dance the night away! The restaurant offers Italian staples while the bar keeps several cocktails, soft drinks and beers flowing.

Al Vapore

"Great Live Music across the Bridge from Venice"

Al Vapore, the small music venue is located right off the mainland-side of the bridge to Venice in Marghera, which is directly on the other side of the tracks from the train station in Mestre. They very often host international jazz acts and world-class music concerts. Folks from all over the region come to Al Vapore to hear good live music in an intimate setting. It's one of the few places in Mestre where the entire family can enjoy a cultural entertainment and some tasty Italian grub.
