Nagasaki City Science Museum

"Science Museum"

This fairly small museum is a great place to take children for a few hours, not only because they may be entertained and educated, but also because it is interesting for adults. Most of the displays and explanations are in Japanese, of course, but the sights and sounds are enough to dazzle. Within, there is a huge "space theater" that is particularly popular. The star displays are even considered a romantic place for a date.

"Happy Feet And More!"

Nagasaki Penguin Aquarium demonstrates the beautiful phenomenons of nature that the wildlife and insects bring with them. You wouldn't get to see penguins out and about elsewhere, but the aquarium has it arranged. You can touch the penguins and even play with them. An entire life-size environment made for the penguins and fish shows how their life has been affected with change in the global climate patterns. There is also a biotope to observe plants and fish, and you could also try kayaking right after!
