

"Best Breakfast & Brunch in Paris"

Realizzata per : Cityseeker

 9 Posizioni indicati

 by avixyz

Breakfast in America

"Real American Food in Paris"

This is an amazingly well-kept secret in Paris. With just a handful of tables, Breakfast in America recreates the American breakfast diner experience as well it should - it was established by a bona fide American ex-pat in 2003. Complete with American coffee, O.J., pancakes with real maple syrup, eggs-to-die-for and the breakfast and brunch menus are the better known offerings. However, be sure to check out their burgers in the afternoon.

 +33 1 4354 5028

 breakfast-in-america.com/

 17 rue de Écoles, Parigi

 by TheFork

Les Éditeurs

"Library-cum-cafe"

Located in the heart of literary Paris, this cafe is an innovative place where you can enjoy food or coffee over literary musings. The restaurant creates the perfect ambiance for contemplation and introspection with its elegant decor, well-lit rooms and a calm atmosphere. Add to this the dollops of food, or just a light coffee, and it's a perfect recipe for pleasing your mind and body simultaneously. This 200-seater has over 5000 books, many being well-recognized best sellers, to make your time here enjoyable.

 +33 1 4326 6776

 www.lesediteurs.fr/

 info@lesediteurs.fr

 4 Carrefour de l'Odéon, Parigi

 by HerryLawford

Café Marly

"Great Views, Better Food at Cafe Marly"

Café Marly boasts one of the best locations in Paris, looking out on the Louvre Museum's courtyard and world-famous glass pyramid from the arcade of the Richelieu wing. The decor at Marly commands an imperial elegance, reminding guests of the Louvre's history as the royal palace of Paris. The menu is similarly upscale, with Michelin-rated chef Jean-Francois Piegé serving his contemporary French creations to eager museum visitors. Perfect to round out a day at the museum, Café Marly is a must-stop, if only for the view.

 +33 1 4926 0660

 contact@beaumarly.com

 93 rue de Rivoli, Parigi

 by "Rachel Park on Unsplash" on Unsplash

Restaurant Le Dali

"Interesting Restaurant"

Restaurant Le Dali serves sumptuous French cuisine in an environment that is mystical as well as very creative. Located in the grand Le Meurice, the first thing you notice about this place is the vast 145-square meter (1560-square foot) painting by Ara Starck, whose father Philippe Starck designed the place. The gold and ochre colors enhance the striking decor of this place. The chef churns out tantalizing dishes fit for this excellent restaurant. Opening its doors from 8a in the morning, this is an ideal place to drop by for a hot breakfast meal.

+33 1 4458 1044

www.dorchestercollection.com/en/paris/le-meurice/restaurant-bars/le-dali/

Info.LMP@dorchestercollection.com

228 rue de Rivoli, Le Meurice, Paris

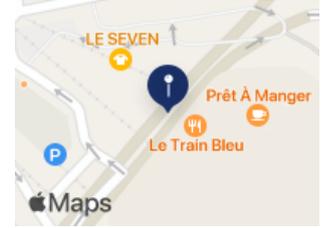

by TheFork

Le Train Bleu

"Gare de Lyon Classic"

Le Train Bleu is located in the Gare de Lyon Station and was built simultaneously with the Grand Palais, Pont Alexandre III and Petit Palais for the World Exhibition of 1900. This dining room is ornate and gorgeously decorated with exquisite wall frescoes, gilded beams, rich wooden booths with blue motifs. The service is spot on and the cuisine is prepared in French Escoffier style. Must-haves include, Escargots in Chablis sauce, Loin of Lamb Provençal and Veal Kidneys in Mustard. In addition, the Big Ben Bar serves drinks in a jiffy.

+33 1 4343 0906

www.le-train-bleu.com/uk/index.php

reservation.trainbleu@ssp.fr

Place Louis Armand, 1st Floor, Gare de Lyon, Paris

by User: (WT-shared) Riggwelter at wts.wikivoyage

Café de la Paix

"At Peace in Paris!"

Inaugurated in 1862, this café is undoubtedly one of the most popular in Paris. With its exquisite Second Empire style, it has forever been a favored hangout for celebrities and tourists alike. The leafy look combined with the rich décor of ornate flourishes and deep polished wood creates an atmosphere of freshness blending with class. You can drop in here for an early breakfast or a delayed supper as the café remains open till late in the night. During winter, you can dine alfresco at the winter terrace that overlooks the Boulevard des Capucines, while summer months see crowds filling in at the open air terrace that gives a great view of the Place de l'Opéra. While in Paris, this is one destination you should not miss.

+33 1 40 07 3636

www.cafedelapaix.fr

cafedelapaixparis@ihg.com

5 Place de l'Opéra, InterContinental Paris Le Grand Hotel, Paris

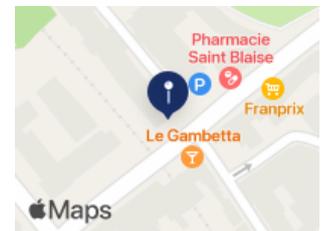

by marko8904

Mama Shelter Restaurant

"A Must Try Brunch"

Located in the Hotel Mama Shelter is its restaurant of the same name. Trendy and cozy, this place is pretty charming. With a staff that's always happy to help and quite an excellent menu, it is almost always crowded, buzzing with locals and travelers alike. Worth mentioning is the Sunday brunch that is surely a hit among the guests staying here. With a never-ending list of delicious hot and cold dishes that include soups, entrees, main courses, desserts and much more, you keep coming back! Though a little pricey, this is one gorgeous spread; not to be missed.

+33 1 4348 4848

www.mamashelter.com/en/paris/restaurants/restaurant/

109 rue de Bagnollet, Hotel Mama Shelter, Paris

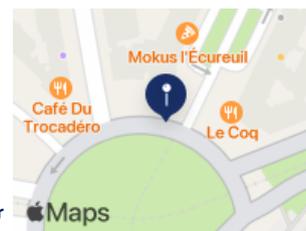

by Michal Osmenda

Carette

"A Landmark Pastry Shop"

On the Place du Trocadéro, with a stunning view of the Eiffel Tower, this chic and enduring institution dating back to the 1930s offers an exquisite selection of the finest French pastry. Their luscious scrambled eggs, copious salads and quiches, all served with delicious bread, are perfect for lunch or brunch. Their claim to fame, however, is really everything sweet – their many flavored 'macarons' and their outrageously rich hot chocolate with whipped cream are considered by many a gourmet to be the best in town.

+33 1 4727 9885

contact@carette-paris.com

4 Place du Trocadéro, Parigi

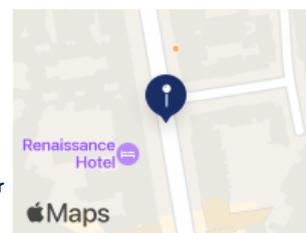

by Jon Mountjoy

Le Relais du Parc

"Enjoy World Class French Cuisine"

For a unique experience, visit Le Relais du Parc, the one Michelin-starred restaurant at the Renaissance Paris Hotel Le Parc Trocadero. Its interiors, with the colorful and classy furnishings is very inviting. You can enjoy your meal while being warmed by one of the fireplaces. If that's not good enough, then how about outdoors at the open air courtyard terrace? So, come and enjoy the seasonal menus and outdoor dining, especially in the warmer months.

+33 1 4405 6610

www.marriott.co.uk/hotels/hotel-information/restaurant/parsp-renaissance-paris-le-parc-trocadero-hotel/

restaurant.lerelais@renaissancehotels.com

57 Avenue Raymond Poincaré, Renaissance Paris Hotel Le Parc Trocadero, Parigi

UNIRSI A NOI A :
cityseeker.com