Ex chiesa di San Paolo

"Prima sede del parlamento tedesco"

La spettacolare facciata della chiesa di San Paolo è sia un simbolo che un'anomalia architettonica di Francoforte. La Paulskirche (chiesa di San Paolo) divenne famosa non come chiesa, ma come luogo di incontro. Costruita in sostituzione della Barfüßerkirche, fu inaugurata nel 1833. Il primo parlamento tedesco liberamente eletto si riunì qui nel 1848. Si riunì 99 volte e approvò 59 articoli che ancora oggi fanno parte della Costituzione tedesca. Distrutta da un bombardamento aereo nel 1944, la chiesa fu ricostruita subito dopo la seconda guerra mondiale per ricordare le conseguenze della guerra. La sala è oggi sede di importanti eventi come la cerimonia annuale del premio tedesco per la pace e la consegna dei premi Goethe della città di Francoforte.

Römer

"Frankfurt's Magnificent City Hall"

Frankfurt Town Hall, as it stands today, is made up of a mele of different buildings. The first buildings to be constructed here were the Zum Römer House and the next-door guest-house, Goldener Schwan in 1405. At the beginning of the 20th Century, two building complexes (north and south) were erected next to Paulsplatz and were joined by a bridge. Designed in a Renaissance and Baroque architectural style, these buildings fit in well with the earlier buildings. They are decorated with reliefs depicting local events, such as the harvesting of cider apples. One particular draw is the exquisitely decorated Kaisersaal (Emperor's Hall) in the Rathaus (city hall). The Rathaus is the seat of the Mayor of Frankfurt.

Old St Nicholas Church

"An Old Lutheran Church"

The Alte Nikolaikirche (Old Nikolai Church) can be found in the southern section of Frankfurt's Römerberg for centuries. Initially designed as a chapel for the neighboring Stauferpfalz Palace, the church was later used for mass and prayer by the town council. In the 15th Century, the building underwent changes and the watchtower was made higher to enable watchmen to signal to ships on the river from the top of the tower. Members of the council could also watch the festivities on the Römerberg from the extended rooftop. A hundred years later, this place of worship was turned into a warehouse and silo. Today, the facade of the late Gothic, double-naved church is painted in its original colors of white and red.

Liebfrauenkirche

"Gothic Hall with Bell Tower"

In the 14th Century, a rich Frankfurt patrician erected a chapel next to the city walls. The chapel was later extended into a Gothic hall with a bell tower called Liebfrauenkirche. During the 18th Century, the inside of the church received ornate rococo fittings, and during the 19th Century, the Three Kings portal was given a vestibule. After severe damage in the War, the whole place was rebuilt in 1954. A wooden roof has now replaced the Gothic original, and from the original interior, only the figures on the altar remain.

Karmeliterkloster

"Renaissance Architecture & Inspiring Frescos"

Built between 1460 and 1520, this historic monastery is worth a visit for its architecture alone. Yet there is much more to see than just thick brick walls. The refectory is considered to be one of the most beautiful Renaissance-period buildings in the city, and Joerg Ratgeb's frescos in the hallway rank among the most important wall-paintings in the whole of Europe. After the last monks (of the Karmeliter Order) left the monastery in 1803, it was turned into a military barracks. Nowadays, Karmeliterkloster is home to the Museum of Early History, the Institute of Urban History and a public art gallery.

Leinwandhaus

"Rags & Art"

In the Middle Ages, this steep-roofed Gothic building was the center of Frankfurt's rag trade and was the place where cloth was stored, weighed and measured. At the outer wall you can still see the measuring cylinder used at the time, known as the Frankfurter Elle. The two-story house was built towards the end of the 14th Century, reputedly by the famous architect Madern Gerthener. After destruction during World War II, it was rebuilt in 1980 and now hosts an art gallery (the Kommunale Galerie) which shows rotating exhibitions by contemporary artists.

Cattedrale di Francoforte

"Una splendida cattedrale imperiale"

Situata vicino al fiume Meno, la cattedrale imperiale di San Bartolomeo è uno dei monumenti più ricchi di storia della città. La sua struttura in stile gotico è diventata parte integrante del profilo di Francoforte. Grazie alle sue antiche origini risalenti al VII secolo a.C., la chiesa è impregnata di storia romana. La cattedrale è famosa per essere stata la chiesa dell'incoronazione degli imperatori romani dal 1562 al 1792. Avendo in parte resistito alla seconda guerra mondiale, la chiesa fu ricostruita negli anni Settanta. La cattedrale ospita varie reliquie e oggetti preziosi tra i quali la scultura di Hans Backoffen, capolavoro della prima fase del Rinascimento che raffigura una scena della crocifissione di Cristo. Nonostante il suo status di chiesa imperiale decadde dopo la caduta dell'Impero Romano, La cattedrale divenne un simbolo di integrità nazionale a partire dal XIX secolo.

Old Jewish Cemetery

"Jewish Cemetery"

Spanning across 2.93 acres (1.19 hectares), the Old Jewish Cemetery has tombstones dating back to the 13th-century. It was last used in 1828 and is the second oldest of its kind in Germany. It is situated near the Jewish Museum and had more than 4,000 of its graves destroyed during Hitler's era, yet has many that are still intact. The cemetery is now part of a memorial which contains the names of 11,134 Frankfurt Jews who were murdered by the Nazis.

Alte Oper

"Il leggendario teatro dell'Opera di Francoforte"

L'Alte Oper, o Vecchia Opera, appare ancora magnifica e imponente come quando fu inaugurata dal Kaiser Guglielmo I nel 1880. L'edificio, finanziato da cittadini benestanti di Francoforte, è stato progettato in stile rinascimentale italiano da Richard Lucae. Distrutto da un bombardamento aereo nel 1944, fu ricostruito in seguito e ribattezzato "Vecchia Opera e centro conference". L'auditorium principale, la Grosser Saal, con circa 2500 posti a sedere, è la parte centrale dell'edificio e viene utilizzato per concerti e spettacoli musicali. Le sale più piccole possono essere affittate per ceremonie, conferenze, eventi aziendali, ricevimenti, lanci di prodotti e così via. I visitatori possono acquistare rinfreschi e mangiare in uno tra bar, ristorante o bistrot.

Grüneburg Park

"Green Space"

Situated in the Westend precinct of Frankfurt, the Grüneburgpark is one of the largest and most loved parks in Frankfurt. The old masters like Wolfgang Goethe would seek solace in this lush greenery and seek inspiration here. Grüneburg which literally means Green Castle, was once the site of a castle in the 14th century but as time passed, it went on to become a 29 hectare green space for the public. One of the focal points of the park is the Korean Garden, which is segregated into four areas symbolizing the four seasons. Because of the park's proximity to the business district and educational institutions, a lot of students and businessmen come here to unwind after work.

Günthersburgpark

"Former Estate-turned-Park"

Situated at the edge of Bornheim, this popular park is a summertime favorite with Frankfurt locals and tourists alike. The park was formerly an estate belonging to the Rothschild family, and while it now features newer elements like a waterslide, a playground and a climbing tower, the charm of its days past still lingers.

Bolongarogarten

"Baroque Garden"

This gem of a baroque garden behind the Bolongaro Palace is the only one of its kind that exists in Frankfurt. Of particular note are the fountain with a statue of Neptune, a Turkish chapel, and an expansive terraced garden. The garden, parts of which run along the Main River, has been restored several times since it was built in the late 18th century, and remains a historical testament to early Baroque city planning.
