Algonquin Hotel

"Lodgings for the Literati"

This deluxe hotel was built in 1902, and it has become a city landmark today. The Algonquin affords easy access to the Broadway Theater District, Fifth Avenue shopping and the Midtown business district. Be sure to visit the Round Table, where literary greats Dorothy Parker, James Thurber, Edna Ferber and others met in the 1920s for their Vicious Circle discussions. The rooms themselves complement the hotel's art-deco style, and uphold the timeless elegance along with providing modern amenities. Overall, the Algonquin Hotel is a legendary hotel that is truly for the classy and the affluent.

Warwick New York

"Classic Hotel"

Famed publisher William Randolph Hearst built this hotel in 1927 for the convenience of his visiting California friends, which helps explain the unusually large suites and tiny lobby. With elegant furnishings, marble baths, walk-in closets and wrap-around terraces, the accommodations should be luxurious enough for even the most discriminating of tastes. Its Midtown address is near Carnegie Hall and the Museum of Modern Art, as well as Central Park, Fifth Avenue shopping and the theaters of Broadway.

The Plaza Hotel

"Classic New York Hotel"

Among the most famous hotels in the world, The Plaza Hotel has been featured in everything from children's books to Hollywood blockbusters. It was built in 1907 in the French Renaissance style and has since become known for its grandeur. The decor is replete with crystal chandeliers, plush furnishings, and dazzling artworks, and every room boasts a timelessly elegant atmosphere. Guests are also guaranteed personalized service throughout their stays, as each floor has its very own butler. Stop by The Palm Court after meandering through nearby Central Park, and see for yourself why both the afternoon tea service and The Plaza Hotel are so iconic.

The Sherry-Netherland

"Dramatic Architecture & Elegance"

This prestigious hotel, built in the 1920s, overlooks Fifth Avenue and Central Park. The combination of location, opulence and charm makes this 50-room hotel a New York classic. From its elegant lobby to the large, luxurious rooms and suites, it is a favorite with the social elite. The Sherry-Netherland is home to the renowned Harry Cipriani's restaurant.

The Carlyle - A Rosewood Hotel New York

"Outstanding Services"

There is little doubt that The Carlyle, with its magnificent view of Central Park and its close proximity to some of the best shops and museums in New York, is one of the preeminent "grand hotels" in New York. The Upper East Side landmark was built in 1930, when spacious accommodations, fine linens and furniture, and a large and attentive staff were the very least that might be expected for a true luxury hotel; and that tradition continues even today.
