Topaz Hotel

"New Age Hotel In Dupont Circle"

Formerly the Canterbury Hotel, this boutique hotel is a little bit Tao, a little bit Zen and a whole lot of New Age. How many other hotels offer packages with psychic readings, have room service attendants in tunics, offer patrons a daily horoscope and set the whole place up Feng Shui style to promote good karma? The rooms at Topaz are a feast for the senses. Each is styled with exotic colors and shapes and makes you feel like you are definitely somewhere different, someplace far away from the suit culture of DC. Dupont Circle is two blocks away.

Hotel Monaco

"Elegance & Splendor"

Hotel Monaco in Washington, DC, located in the historic Tariff Building, used to be one of the city's most prominent historical landmarks. In the old days, this lovely four-star hotel was the General Post Office's building, also known as the Tariff building. Refurbished in 2002, the boutique hotel boasts spacious, well-equipped rooms that are perfect for any weary and discerning traveler. Designed by Robert Mills, architect of the Washington Monument, this building was completed in 1842 as the first all-marble building in the city.

The Hotel George

"Modern Luxury"

This early 20th-century building is completely renovated to provide travelers with neo-modern luxury in the heart of Washington's Capitol Hill. The guest rooms combine colonial elegance with custom designed, modern furnishings. Just one block from the Metro and within walking distance of the U.S. Capitol, Hotel George is in an ideal location for the business traveler with a hefty expense account. Bistro Bis, the hotel's restaurant, serves contemporary French cuisine in a traditional French bistro atmosphere.
