Biga on the Banks

"Creative Fine Dining"

With a seasonal menu of creative dishes by Chef Bruce Auden, Biga on the Banks is one of San Antonio's favorite fine dining restaurants. The dining room is elegant and warm, featuring yellow and red tones and wooden sculptures throughout. Entrees are mainly American meat and seafood dishes, including the seared mahi-mahi and beef rib eye. The atmosphere is perfect for a romantic dinner. They also cater, so you can have their delicious food at your special event.

Fig Tree Restaurant

"Opulent Dining on the River Walk"

If you are looking for an upscale dining experience with classic cuisine and a decor to match, look no further. Nothing is taken for chance at this restaurant, which is located on the River Walk in a charming, restored old home in La Villita. The china, silver, table settings and general decor of Fig Tree Restaurant make it an experience in fine dining. The menu consists of entrees such as rack of lamb, Chateaubriand and beef Wellington. The Fig Tree also spares no expense on a very well-rounded wine list.

Nao

"Trendy Dining"

Students from The Culinary Institute of America staff Nao, a fine dining restaurant with Peruvian influences; that means you can expect the seasonal dishes you taste here to be prepared and presented in an innovative way. The chicken in mole sauce is a popular dish here, and the beautiful desserts will take your breath away before you even take a bite. The trendy, lively atmosphere is a great place to enjoy a meal and a custom cocktail.
