20th Street Cafe

"Cheap And Hot"

If it's cheap meals you're looking for, it does not get any better than this. Located on 20th Street, as the name suggests, this cafe is one of the places to grab hot and inexpensive meals. 20th Street Cafe is a very casual dining place with a simple get-up, few tables and a black board that lists what's hot for the day. This place wins hands down on pricing and food. The menu consists of classic American cuisine with a blend of Japanese and Mexican delights. Favorites among regulars is the Chicken-Fried Steak, traditional fried rice with various toppings and Moco Loco, which is a Hawaiian-like plate lunch. Come here early though, as it gets packed and parking is a bit of a problem.

The Market at Larimer Square

"Market Goodness"

Legendary eatery, The Market at Larimer Square has designed a floor space that organizes grub by timing, temperature, taste and form. Confused ? Well, the brilliance of The Market is that it is a bakery, deli, grocery, coffee bar and restaurant all rolled into one. Hence, the need for organization that dictates each person selecting either the freshest of meals from the hot and cold deli counter, piping and frothing coffees with pastries and muffins from the cafe section or enjoying the meal while soaking in the bustle at their seated section. Cakes made to order, salads tossed fresh every morning, sandwiches brimming with local goodness, caffeine fixes, afternoon teas and a whole lot more, all available through the day, everyday. Their catering service covers boxed lunches, breakfasts on the go and food trays destined for great parties. Denver's local hero!

Randolph's

"American All the Way!"

One of the best restaurants in Denver, Randolph's at the Warwick Denver Hotel sure knows how to entice. Winner of various awards, the restaurant strikes the perfect balance between chic and comfort. Open all day long, you will be spoilt for choice. Drop in to sample their lip-smacking brunch in the open while reading a book or watching Denverites, or opt for a more cozy nook for two and enjoy an evening with that special someone. Menu must-haves include Airline Chicken and Trout Papillote. Try these with one of their award-winning wines and end the meal with the creamy Vanilla Bean Crème Brulee. A pleasure for your senses.
