Woldenberg Park (New Orleans)

"Oasis of Greenery"

Woldenberg Riverfront Park, a green oasis of 16 acres (6.47 hectares) stretches along the old Governor Nicholls Street wharf to the Aquarium of the Americas at Canal Street. This promenade is located in the heart of the city and is scattered with numerous works by local artists. It boasts hundreds of beautiful trees such as oaks, magnolias, willows and crepe myrtle. Sit on one of the many benches and view the city's busy port, second only to Amsterdam in tonnage.

Louisiana Children's Museum

"Fun for the Whole Family"

When in town, take your kids out for an unforgettable fun-and-learn experience at this spectacular museum. Louisiana Children's Museum offers a toddler area and children's drama, dance, and puppet shows. There are also art and science exhibits, as well as hands-on math and physics exhibits, and a reproduction of a television studio. Many of the exhibits are geared toward learning through doing. This style of learning makes it fun for both parents and kids alike. This is a great rainy day field trip and a good place for anyone trying to get away from the "adult" aspects of the city.

Mardi Gras World

"Where Mardi Gras is Created"

Mardi Gras World is where Mardi Gras comes to life with the creation of Mardi Gras floats. Here, you can catch the artists and builders of the world-famous floats hard at work. There is a gift shop where you can buy Carnival memorabilia, so you can say you have seen Mardi Gras and have something to show for it. Mardi Gras World is a fun trip for children, as a chest full of costumes affords them the chance to dress in true Carnival style. When in town, Mardi Gras World makes for an unmissable family attraction.

City Putt Miniature Golf Course

"Fun Way to Learn Golf"

City Putt Miniature Golf Course is situated at the southern end of City Park. It consists of two 18-hole mini golf courses with fun attractions for kids. Obstacles include artificial waterfalls, charming windmills and themed obstructions built to resemble famous attractions in New Orleans and top world cities. A soft toy in the form of a tall teddy bear standing with a golf club in hand forms its mascot. This course overlooks Carousel Garden, Botanical Garden and Storyland within City Park. Therefore, you can see carousel horses and sculptures of pelicans dotting the landscape. The entire mini golf course can be rented for hosting birthday parties and corporate events.

Rock 'n' Bowl

"Rock & Roll While You Bowl"

This New Orleans institution features rock 'n' roll while you bowl. Bowlers have a fantastically fun time as they dance to the sounds of zydeco and swing. The authentically gaudy bowling alley features swing on Tuesdays, zydeco on Wednesdays and Thursdays, and a mixed bag of performers on the weekends. Typical bar food and surprisingly good entrees are featured, as well as beverages both alcoholic and non. This fun spot also caters weddings and conventions.

Hines Carousel Gardens Amusement Park

"Flying Horses In City Park"

In a world where the wooden carousel is nearly extinct, a century-old version is a sight to be seen and ridden. Under City Park's majestic oaks, the Hines Carousel continues to run after being painstakingly restored after hurricane Katrina. Children of all ages will enjoy a ride on the hand-carved horses of the last wooden carousel in Louisiana. After a spin on the carousel, ride the afternoon away on any of the other amusement rides in the collection including a Tilt-a-Whirl, Scrambler, Bumper Cars, and 40-foot Slide. Finish the day with a trip around the park in one of the open-air passenger cars of the Park's miniature train.

Audubon Park

"A Historic Park"

Having started out as the nation's first sugar plantation, then an urban park, and finally renamed in 1886 as Audubon Park in tribute to John James Audubon who painted many of his famed "Birds of America" in Louisiana, the 350-acre (141.64 hectares) Audubon Park and Audubon Zoo is a place one can truly and peacefully enjoy New Orleans's old-world charm: fountains, statues, gazebos, lagoons, giant oak trees, and the occasional horse-back riders and carriages. There are also a golf course, tennis courts, and an extremely popular 1.8-mile-long (2.8 kilometers) paved jogging track. Do walk along the outskirts of the park and be wowed by the historic buildings of Loyola and Tulane universities, as well as many elegant mansions.

Jean Lafitte National Historical Park and Preserve

"An Amalgam of Nature and History"

Consisting of six sites spread across New Orleans, this historic site pays homage to the legacy of Jean Lafitte, a French pirate and the historical events that unfolded in his wake. The visitor center has historic walking tours of the French Quarter and also sets the scene for other historic sites in and around New Orleans. The extensive Barataria Preserve is part of the site and is sheathed in a tapestry of marshes, swamps and dense hardwood forests, while the Chalmette Battlefield has been the ground of many historic battles and wars. Characterized by a string of teeming bayous and inextricable Cajun traditions, the Jean Lafitte National Historical Park and Preserve is a stirring insight into the historical heart of New Orleans.
