Kindermuseum Junges Schloss

"Making Regional History Exciting"

Junges Schloss is the state capital's first children's museum. The museum focuses on the regional history of the area, making the state's history engaging and exciting for the youngest generation of Stuttgarters. The museum's goal is to foster a love of art and culture by allowing kids to explore unique exhibits that teach them about these topics without being overbearing or too dense. Adults will love to watch their children engage with the exhibits and may even learn a thing or two themselves.
