Claremont Country Club

"Club in the Oakland Hills"

The beautiful Claremont Country Club has been operating for over a century, though its luxurious grounds are certainly not outdated. The establishment, which is one of the premier private clubs in the Bay Area, has a jewel-like 18-hole golf course that was redesigned by noted architect Alister MacKenzie in 1926. Club members also have access to seven tennis courts, two outdoor pools, a gym, and a stunning Tudor-style clubhouse that was built in 1929.

Corica Park Golf Course

"Bay Area Favorite"

This is the most frequented golf course in the San Francisco Bay Area. The three course facility is owned by the island city and it's known for its well maintained grounds. It has two 18 hole par 71/72 courses: the popular Early Fry course and the straighter Jack Clark South course. Plus it has a 9 hole track called the Mif Albright course, a driving range, and top notch locker facilities. The course is utilized by persons of all skills and ages, so many, in fact, that it's recommended that you reserve a tee time at least a week in advance.

Metropolitan Golf Links

"An Excellent Surface to Play"

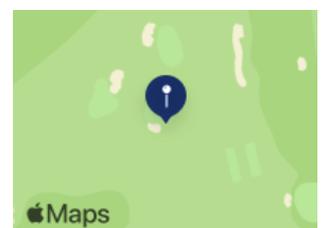

Few would believe that Metropolitan Golf Links was used some years ago as a dumping ground for wastes from the San Francisco Bay area. This 18-hole golf course today offers an excellent surface to play but the small lakes, streams, grass and muddy surfaces test your golfing skills. The on-board golf shop stocks modern golf accessories. Not all who come here are pros, so many amateurs take lessons from the professional golfers who teach and give out golfing tips to the new entrants. The club can also be hired for weddings and other social events.

Sequoiah Country Club

"Quality Course"

The Sequoyah Country Club in the Oakland Hills is home to one of the best golf courses in the city. The 18-hole, par 70 course features perfectly manicured greens, rolling hills and beautiful trees. Members rarely need pre-arrange tee times, and still the course is never crowded.

Monarch Bay Golf Club

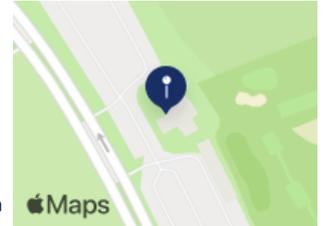

"A Great Golf Venue"

Monarch Bay Golf Club in San Leandro is a great golf venue with a course that sets it apart from other courses in the neighboring areas. The 27-hole course is in close proximity to the San Francisco Bay and has some of the best views of the land beyond. Scenic location and easily accessible, it is a preferred venue not only for national and international tournaments but also for local events. The restaurant and bar are good enough to cozy up for a lunch or high tea and the Pro Shop stocks modern golfing accessories.

Lake Chabot Golf Course

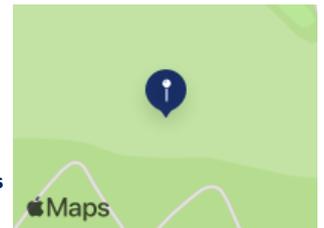

"A Panoramic Golf Challenge"

Situated amidst the hills of Oakland is the Lake Chabot Golf Course. As the name suggests, the course is a public treasure and it has a long history. The course plays a host to the city golf championship, which dates back to 1920. The course offers 27 pristine holes and is accessible to all, irrespective of ability. It is indeed a perfect venture for all the golf lovers. The place is otherwise a popular wedding ground and function house.
