Hirmer

"Normal & Oversize Menswear"

Centrally located in the middle of the pedestrian zone, close to the Frauenkirche and easily recognizable because of its arches, Hirmer is a menswear shop that sells business and leisure wear with middle to upper-range price tags. Brand names include Boss, van Laak, René Lezard and Barbour. Hirmer is quite rightly proud of its selection of over-sized fashions, which is good, because there are plenty of big beer bellies out there, bursting the seams of their jackets.

Susanne Bommer

"Unpredictable & Uncompromising"

One of the few Munich fashion designers to have gained a reputation outside the city, Susanne Bommer has been awarded Munich's avant garde prize for fashion. On the one hand, her classic designs exude a timeless elegance, yet they are never predictable or bourgeois. Some pieces are made from synthetic materials and others from batiste cotton, but none compromise on comfort. The combination of traditional and bold colors means that customers can mix and match easily. Unlike other designers, Susanne Bommer doesn't throw away last season's collection, but freshens it up and uses it as the basis for her next collection. Clothes as fascinating as this do not come cheap.
