Hamмам Al Ándalus

"Sixteenth Century Hammam"

A trip to Granada would be incomplete without spending a few hours at a traditional hammam. One of the best, Hammam Al Ándalus offers a unique spa experience in the lap of Alhambra, and resurrects the original sixteenth century Arab bath that once stood here. The Moorish arches, pillars and vaults have been done in exactly the same fashion as the original, you'd think that you've stepped back in time. An alluring and tranquil ambiance pervades every corner of the place, from the pools to the steam and massage rooms. You can dip in the tepid pools and relax with a refreshing cup of mint tea later. The Kessa and red grape soap massages will certainly leave you feeling renewed with a glow and put a spring back in your step. Booking highly advisable.

El Bañuelo

"Oldest Arab Bath in Granada"

This 11th-century public bathhouse is one of the best preserved buildings of the period. It's been carefully restored and still gives you a feel of what it must have been like nearly 1000 years ago. During the Moorish occupation of the city, there were many bathhouses around town. It has a social as well as a religious function. The Romans were probably here first, using the water from the adjacent River Darro.

Aljibe de San Miguel Baños Árabes

"For Tired Travelers"

The tradition of hammams is not new to Granada; Arab baths were an essential part of the Moorish culture that flourished here. Aljibe recreates the traditional hammam experience in a tranquil setting inspired by earthy elements. The hedonistic scents of luxurious oils percolate every corner of the spa, and the dim lights work well with the soothing ambiance. The space includes tepid pools, separate massage area and a cushioned relaxation area where you can sip mint tea after the bathing ritual. You can choose from a variety of treatments that include specialty massages and baths.

Termasaje

"Japanese-Style Beauty Treatment"

Termasaje is a traditional Japanese bath and massage center in Granada. As you enter the place, the atmosphere and the surrounding decoration will transport you to a faraway land in Japan. The place has an authentic Japanese feel — as you go in, you can see candles and incense sticks burning and also hear Zen music playing. Along with this, you get to taste green tea with strawberries and also Japanese cherries — all this to help you relax and have a wonderful time here. You can reserve a bath with or without a massage. They provide beauty treatments and also therapeutic massages for a number of ailments.
