Perry's Steakhouse & Grille

"Succulent Steaks"

Close to the luxurious Ritz-Carlton is another classy establishment, although meant only for dining; in Perry's sophisticated atmosphere, you can enjoy some delicious steaks, burgers and seafood. Prime Hawaiian rib-eye steaks, Kobe burgers and fried shrimp are just some of the treats the restaurant has in store for you. The Southwest filet mignon and Symphony Kabob are signature dishes you should try. Bar 79 has over 5000 bottles of wine just waiting for you to try them.

Nonna

"Great Little Restaurant"

Welcome to Nonna, a great little place serving fine Italian cuisine in Dallas. Located on Lemmon, the place always seems to be crowded with locals thronging to this place. Not just the crowd, but the dining space itself is limited so it appears a bit crammed up. The menu is just one page, but changes daily and includes a selection of salads, traditional pizzas, pastas, and entrees. Try the house made lamb sausage with fava beans and Spaghetti Carbonara. Nonna also has a bar which is visible as you enter the place serving some fine Italian wines. What makes this place a favorite is the generous servings of entrees and pizzas prepared in wood ovens, liberally covered with Paula Lambert's homemade mozzarella.

Cafe Pacific

"Splendid Seafood in Highland Park"

A classic steak and seafood house with beautiful architecture, Cafe Pacific looks like it should be in Boston. Located in historic Highland Park Village, you'll find elegant dining in a picturesque, upscale shopping village. It's a splendid place for special occasions or business dinners. Lobster is a specialty here, but so are a variety of steak dishes. Daily seafood specials are always a worthwhile detour from the norm.
