P.J. O'Brien's

"Irish on Colborne"

If you were searching for an authentic Irish bar in Downtown Core, this St. Lawrence bar ends your search. Blending splendid decor with the traditional Irish Bar feel, P. J. O'Brien's is easily one of the most popular bars around the neighborhood. Armed with a great, long list of draughts, single malts, whiskeys and a selection of wines, O'Brien's has something for everyone. You can choose to sip on your refreshing pint or go for a flavorsome single malt, if beer just won't do; if that isn't interesting either, there are plenty of cocktails on offer too. The food menu is just as diverse with several finger foods like chicken wings, hand-cut fries as well as the usual salads, sandwiches, pastas and burgers that usually pass off as pub grub. Nevertheless, everything on the menu is delectable, the service is pretty attentive and the live music entertainment provided is quite awesome; stop by with a couple of friends, to have a good time.

Williams Landing

"One Bar, Many Roles"

Perhaps there are more upscale bars around town, but none of them display hospitality quite like this one here. Located near Liberty Village, Williams Landing is a spacious venue with many roles. For those who want to relax with a couple of pints or cocktails, it's a fabulous cocktail bar, for those who want to catch the latest game, it's a cool sportsbar, thanks the many LCD screens and for those feeling peckish, it's a suave gastropub, given the several tasty munchies they serve. Right from the minute you step in - from busboys who welcome you with cold towels, the spacious, elegant yet cozy seating area to the delicious grub they bring out - this joint will floor you; just drop in to see for yourself!
