Butler Court

"Staying Amidst History"

Butler Court offers a homely stay in the heart of Kilkenny, hosts Yvonne and John give their hospitality a very personal touch. To know what it is like to stay in a Georgian house in Ireland, this Hotel would give you a fine glimpse: an almost picturesque entrance that takes you to a beautiful courtyard surrounded by the rooms. You could relax with a cuppa in the court, and watch the day pass by. The rooms are comfortable, cozy and well furnished with a warm, rustic touch. The bath is equipped with modern fittings, and toiletries. Heritage sites of Kilkenny are at a stone's throw from the hotel, and view of the Kilkenny Castle from the rooms is breathtaking.

Lawcus Farm Guest House

"A Breath of Fresh Air"

Lawcus Farm Guest House is a beautiful place for a mini-retreat of sorts, with family or someone special. This farmhouse is located near the Kings River, and guests are free to explore the river and even fish for salmon in it. The river area is surrounded by wildlife, as well as various kinds of radiant flowers. They have six rooms, and each of those rooms has a unique character, be it the rustic Stone Room, the Victorian style Gold Family Suite or the warm Oak Family Room. The farmhouse also has a tree-house as an accommodation option, which has to be booked for a minimum of two nights.
