Shangri-La - Midtown

"Dim Sum Delight"

Shangri-La is a restaurant in Detroit's Midtown that specializes in authentic and Americanized Chinese cuisine. Although Shangri-La does offer regular a la carte service which is popular, the main way to dine is Dim Sum. Get a table and watch as plates full of food pass by your table on carts ready for your selection. Particular favorites include the dumplings and the hot and sour soup made using black vinegar. Shangri-La also has a full bar including a good selection of sake.

Red Star Chinese Restaurant

"Classic Chinese Favorites"

This Dearborn area Chinese restaurant keeps customers coming back by putting out dependably tasty dishes time after time. From sweet and sour pork to sesame chicken, the usual Chinese favorites are done to perfection. Whatever you get, try it with a little spicy mustard for an extra zip. Vegans and vegetarians frequent this place because nearly anything on the menu can be made suitable to any dietary specifications, in terms of taste, the faux meat options are nearly indistinguishable from their carnivorous counterparts! The congenial staff is eager to suggest dishes, so don't be shy in asking for recommendations. For yummy food to quell your Chinese cravings, Red Star Chinese Restaurant doesn't disappoint.

LC's Asian Kitchen

"Fresh Chinese Food"

With a surfeit of choices for Chinese food in Madison Heights, LC's Asian Kitchen stands somewhere near the top of the pack. A survey of LC's patrons reveals a few common themes: diners here love the freshness of the food, as well as the not-too-greasy texture, two issues often plaguing restaurants that do high-volume take-out orders. The restaurant's decor features white table cloths, with walls adorned with pictures of famous Asian landscapes like the Great Wall of China. The atmosphere is calm and relaxing, making it a perfect place to have a low-key lunch or dinner with family or friends.
