Joe Allen

"An American Legend"

This restaurant's wholesome American fare brings a taste of Manhattan to the heart of Paris. With its round tables, checked tablecloths and brick walls covered with posters, Joe Allen is a copy of its sister restaurant in New York. The stylish surroundings and laid-back atmosphere make it the perfect place for drinking wine, champagne or beer. Sheltered from prying eyes by high bushes, the restaurant's location in a quiet little street in the Halles area makes it a favorite with locals and tourists alike.

Breakfast in America

"Real American Food in Paris"

This is an amazingly well-kept secret in Paris. With just a handful of tables, Breakfast in America recreates the American breakfast diner experience as well it should - it was established by a bona fide American ex-pat in 2003. Complete with American coffee, O.J., pancakes with real maple syrup, eggs-to-die-for and the breakfast and brunch menus are the better known offerings. However, be sure to check out their burgers in the afternoon.

H.A.N.D. Restaurant

"Have a Nice Day"

This charming American eatery is located on rue de Richelieu and is the perfect place for a mid-day snack or meal. Have A Nice Day ("H.A.N.D.") specializes in American cuisine, favoring classics like hamburgers, onion rings, salads, sandwiches and fries. Their baked goods vary from day to day but often include carrot cake, cupcakes, bagels, and cheesecake. The restaurant features vintage decor throughout, with hanging light bulbs at the counter creating a simple and understated artistic light installation.

Paris New York

"Gourmet Burgers"

Paris New York joins the bandwagon of eateries on the city's dining scape that advocate the gourmet burger trend. Re-inventing the timeless American classic, on offer are a limited selection of varieties that pride themselves on being large and loaded with flavor. Make a choice from the likes of vintage double cheese, morning California or smoky blue to complement an impressive list of German and Belgian brews, wine or their signature espresso. Their meats stand out for being cooked over open flames and their fries are handcrafted. Spread over two floors, the contemporary decor, unrefined walls and wooden accents lend a laid-back vibe.
