Badmaash

"Modern Indian Gastropub"

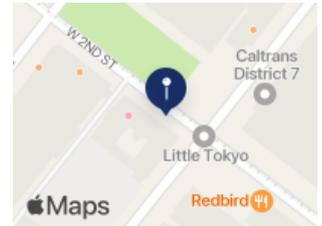

With innovative offerings like crispy tamarind glazed pork belly and chicken tikka poutine, this downtown gastropub will change the way you look at Indian food. Soaring ceilings and a wall covered in colorful horizontal stripes greets patrons in the dining room. Contemporary light fixtures punctuate the entire space. Kitschy Bollywood posters adorning the walls complete the decor; a refreshing change from the done-to-death exotic themes prevalent in most Indian restaurants. The menu offers a mix of traditional and quirky creations. Street food favorites like papri chaat and samosas start off the proceedings. Traditional favorites include the butter chicken, smoked eggplant mash and chicken tikka masala. The spiced lamb burger has received accolades and should not be missed. The drinks list offers a choice of wines, beers as well as Indian cola imports like ThumsUp and Limca.

Eightytwo

"Arcade Mania"

Gaming arcades were a fad from the 1960s through the 1990s and are now considered to be more like vintage collectibles. Now, two downtown residents in LA have thrown open the doors of a bar and a gaming arcade for adults to relive their childhood memories. The Eighty Two bar in Los Angeles has an array of classic arcade games like Pac-Man, Centipede, Pinball and other such classics. You can enjoy your games with the drinks they serve. Their bar features craft cocktails and draft beers. This place has an airy arcade area and a large outdoor seating area. The atmosphere gets lighter in the evenings with DJs that play a groovy mix of songs. Although technology has advanced, there's nothing like old school arcade machines with coin slots. So come in and get gaming!

Caña Rum Bar

"A Downtown Bar with Swagger"

This exclusive bar requires a membership, but before you jump ship, know that it's USD20 a year to gain access, which is the equivalent of a club cover charge for just one night in Los Angeles! With dimly lit interiors and a gorgeous bar adorned with fruits, spirits, spices, and herbs, this establishment has a decor of the ingredients that make potent rum-infused cocktails. Caña boasts over 100 rums, and each variety has a unique character as these are small-batch liqueurs. In addition to the excellent rum collection, the gorgeous outdoor seating is Caña's other unique proposition. The warmth of a fireplace and cane seating spaces here allows patrons to become oblivious to the outside world.

La Descarga

"Get Ready to Rum-ble!"

One of East Hollywood's best kept secrets, La Descarga is a sultry bar and lounge steeped in Cuban themes, cigars and spirits. Once through the discreet entrance and down the spiral staircase, you are propelled into a Havana club, complete with dapper bartenders slinging the best rum cocktails in town. There's also a cigar area, where unhurried patrons lounge with Cuban cigars into the wee hours of the night. Be advised that the club gets crazy crowded on some nights, so if you're coming with a group on a busier evening, you might want to consider opting for bottle service.

Blind Barber

"A Cool Concept"

Blind Barber is the venture of Adam Kirsch, Jeff Laub and Joshua Boyd. This barbershop plus bar has garnered a fan following that is just increasing with each passing day. While you can go for a trim, shave or a cut in the front room, it is the back room where all the action lies. This 1920s speakeasy inspired space complete with its dim lights and leather booths is where you can enjoy happy hours and listen to cool music.
